SCHOOL COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

DISTRICT No. 1 Summer — SARAH J. DAVIS, teacher. This teacher did not appear to be adapted to the latitude of this school district—not possessing the requisite energy and decision of character to control a school of thirty scholars, somewhat inclined to be unruly. Want of order was a prominent fault, and the consequences of that fault were very apparent throughout all the exercises of the school.

Winter—GEORGE W. PIERCE, teacher. The school is backward. The order was good and some progress has been made in study; but it is evident to the committee, that the Common School does not hold that place in the minds of the Parents of this district which its importance demands. Mr. Pierce gave evidence in school of more than ordinary capacity as a teacher.

No. 2. One Term. Winter—FRANK A. GORDON, teacher.—The school is still in progress, and promises much good. Mr. G. interests himself much in his employment, and has secured the confidence of both pupils and parents. We doubt not the school will exhibit a happy degree of improvement at its close.

No. 3. Summer—MARIA L. BUTLER, teacher.—The Committee were well pleased with the appearance of this school. In system and discipline it ranks with the best in town. With the exception of reading, the general improvement of the scholars in the various branches was highly satisfactory.

Winter—MARK MANAHAN, teacher.—Mr. Manahan is an excellent scholar, and does not appear to be wanting in a faculty to instruct his pupils, but he was too indulgent in this school to secure the greatest amount of good. Want of good order was the great fault of the school.

No. 4. Summer—SUSAN C. EASTMAN, teacher.—This school was under the care of a good scholar and faithful teacher, and made decided improvement in all the branches of study to which their attention was directed. We were also highly gratified with the general appearance of the school-room. Original exercises suggested by a teacher, gives a healthful excitement to the minds of children, which is indispensable to successful study.

Winter—FRANK A. GORDON, teacher.—The Committee were in at the opening of the school, and were much pleased with the appearance of things. Frequent inquiries were made into the progress of the school, as to its prosperity, to which the answer was uniform: "we have a good teacher, and the school is doing well." The roads being utterly impassable, the term closed without an examination.

No. 5. Summer and Winter—ELIZA L. SAWYER, teacher.—Miss Sawyer has taught this school several terms, and the Committee are happy to say that she fully sustains her reputation, as one of our best teachers.

No. 6. Summer—MARY L. WADSWORTH, teacher.—From various causes, the number of scholars was diminished so that only three small children were in attendance when the committee visited the school, near the close of the term. The school was nearly a failure. A want of efficient government may have contributed to this result. Those present showed some progress.

Winter—EDMUND S. HOYT, teacher.—Mr. Hoyt has eminent qualifications for a teacher, and has succeeded admirably. In the examination it appeared that good progress had been made in the various branches taught, and some of the larger scholars exhibited a shade of intellectual cultivation which was very gratifying.

No. 7. Summer—LIVONA WOOD, teacher.—The school did not meet the expectation of the Committee. The noise and disorder in the school-room, accounted for limited progress. A more energetic government would probably have secured a more favorable result.

Winter—CHARLES H. DARLING, teacher.—The school was very prosperous. It was apparent in the examination that Mr. Darling is a successful teacher. The class in Colburn's Arithmetic gave good satisfaction to the Committee. The reading was of a high order, and showed a thorough training in that branch. The government was good, and whispering was nearly excluded from the school. The examination was very creditable both to teacher and pupils.

No. 8. Summer—MARY M. PATTERSON, teacher.—The progress in this school was tolerably good, but did not fully come up to the expectation of the Committee.

Winter—JAMES L. SMITH, teacher.—There was some progress in the school, but far too limited. A want of an ability on the part of the teacher to communicate with clearness what he knew, a want of government, and a want of application on the part of the pupils, probably contributed to this result.

No. 9. Summer and Winter—LIZZIE H. FARRAR, teacher.—In the Summer the school numbered but four pupils, and in the Winter only five. We deem it next to an impossibility for a teacher to labor as successively, or satisfactorily, with so few scholars, as under more favorable circumstances. In the present case, we judge that the teacher has been faithful, and as successful as could be expected. Pupils generally require the stimulus of numbers to excite enthusiasm in study. If the evil of so many small schools could be remedied, an exceedingly desirable end would be attained.

No 10. Summer—ABBY A. WHITTAKER, teacher. This was a very prosperous school. The examination gave entire satisfaction to the Committee.

Winter—R. D. RICE, teacher. Mr. Rice has had good success, and has given very general satisfaction. At the examination the school was in a good and prosperous condition.

No. 11. Summer—ANNA M. JOHNSON, teacher. It seems almost superfluous to say that the school was in its best trim. Miss J. has stored her mind with principles and illustrations, and is eminently happy in the use of them while engaged in that work in which she seems perfectly at home—educating the youthful mind. The common sense view of science inspires the school room with an interest not found there under parrot-like instruction. We take pleasure in reporting the school as having made great progress.

Winter—HIRAM RICE, teacher. The school has not fallen from the interest excited the previous term. It has been under the best discipline—mild but firm. Much has been done to improve the morals of the school, and not without success. Whispering, in a good degree, has been banished from the school room. Mr. Rice has interested himself in his pupils at other times besides during the regular session of the day, and has seen happy results from these extra labors. This district has been peculiarly happy in securing the services of those whose qualifications as disciplinarians and instructors, are of a high order.

No. 12. One term. LOIS A. WHITCOMB, teacher. This school is very small, but has evidently enjoyed the labors of a faithful teacher. While the pupils, as a whole, have advanced well in their studies, the little ones have done admirably. The order of the school room was highly gratifying.

No. 13. Summer and Winter—JUDITH M. PUTNEY, teacher.—The school appeared tolerably well. The teacher confined her pupils too exclusively to the text books. Considering the amount of schooling in this district, and the number of scholars in attendance, the improvement was not such as might have been expected.

Your Committee are happy to report that universal peace, so far as they know, has reigned in our schools through the year. With but few exceptions, we have had a noble band of teachers. In no instance have the Committee been called upon to settle difficulties.

Nearly all the schools have made commendable progress in their studies.

It has been gratifying to see so many of the parents and friends of the pupils in the school room. We consider it an omen of good. Their presence carries with it a magic power. We wish especially to call the attention of fathers and mothers, elder brothers and sisters, and friends throughout the town, to this point. Visit the schools, not as critics, but as friends—those who are interested in the welfare of the young. Surely no visit to a neighbor's could be half so interesting or profitable; and more than all, how happy its influence upon the school.

In quite a number of our schools the past year, much attention has been given to the morals of the pupils. The effort has been made to create a healthful atmosphere not only in, but around the school house; and the effects of such efforts have been quite visible. It is a lamentable truth that many children, when not under the anxious eye of parents, often revel in vice to such a degree that parents would be altogether incredulous if a true report were carried them. We deem it to be absolutely essential, to secure children against the formation of bad habits when they come together in their schools, that at home, from the earliest dawn of intellect, there should be continually given "precept upon precept, precept upon precept; line upon line, line upon line: here a little, and there a little." Should this be done by all who have little children under their moulding influence, we might at least hope that profaneness and vulgarity would disappear from our nurseries of learning.

In looking over the Registers, we find that many scholars have been exceedingly irregular in their attendance upon school. Much time has been lost by absences and tardinesses. We would call the attention of parents to this subject, and urge upon all, both parents and pupils, the great importance of promptness and punctuality if they would reap the greatest benefit from our system of education.

In May last, the Merrimack County Teachers' Institute met in this place, which, under the judicious management of Mr. Commissioner Roberts, assisted by an able band of Teachers, exerted a happy influence upon our community. We think the money expended in this way, profitably invested; and that could the sum be greatly increased, we should see a corresponding increase of good resulting from it. It is impossible that gentlemen employed to give instruction on such occasions, should spend one or two weeks with the teachers of our district schools, and not communicate much that is new and valuable, and thus put in motion a wave of influence which will break in blessings on the rising generation.
